COVID-19 In Pittsburgh: Health Systems Call On Retired Nurses To Help Administer Vaccine

Health care workers across the city want to step up and help vaccinate as the rollout continues, but it's still not enough people. Health systems are now reaching out to retirees asking them to come back to help.

"We are asking anyone in the community who fits in those categories to be able to administer vaccines to let us know," said AHN's Chief Nurse Executive Claire Zangerle.

While current health care workers want to vaccinate, Zangerle said more patients are coming to the hospital for procedures and illnesses outside COVID-19. "We want to make sure we have enough people at the bedside to take care of our patients," Zangerle said.

THE CYNAMED WAY

How Can CynaMed Help You?

CynaMed takes a different approach to how healthcare professionals find work. Our recruiting and staffing specialists hold expertise far beyond what you find in most HR departments. Thanks to CynaMed, many health workers in western Pennsylvania and Ohio have found their dream occupation.

Working with us is as simple as applying on our website or visiting us in person. We will take an in-depth look at your skillset and workplace needs to find the perfect fit for you. Instead of simply looking at your skill set or professional license, our recruiters will take the time to get to know you. By doing so, they will be able to find the best possible match within our selection of client facilities, medical practices, and hospitals.

Call or text us at (412) 325-3420.
